

Starline has become known for our award winning TruColor™ raised imprint. Our passion to continually improve on our print technology along with our community outreach inspired us to develop a TruColor™ Braille imprint for drinkware. The community of people who rely on braille, as well as those who include braille in their promotional campaigns, currently have limited promotional product options.

We have created multiple levels of braille print to satisfy varying requirements. Some customers who work with strict color brand standards might prefer our Level 1 to take advantage of Free TruColor™ PMS Color Matching. Other customers might prefer our Level 2 which produces a more pronounced dot. Our team of artists size each request to meet ADA point size specifications.

We are excited to expand the available options for those who have a need for promotional products with braille printing. Our goal is to see corporations of all sizes having a greater awareness level of the blind and visually impaired communities, and that they will start to include braille printing into their every-day promotional campaigns.
